Deputy Assistant Administrator for Stationary Sources ES-0340-00

Introduction

This position is located in the immediate office of the Office of Air and Radiation (OAR) at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The Deputy Assistant Administrator (DAA) for Stationary Sources serves under the Assistant Administrator (Air and Radiation). The DAA for Stationary Sources, in combination with the DAA for Mobile Sources, the DAA for Air and Radiation, the Principal Deputy Assistant Administrator, and the Assistant Administrator (AA), manages and oversees the Office of Air and Radiation. The Office of Air and Radiation develops national programs, policies, and regulations for controlling air pollution and radiation exposure, and for administering the Clean Air Act, the Atomic Energy Act, the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant Land Withdrawal Act, and other applicable environmental laws. The incumbent supports OAR's work through a variety of special and on-going responsibilities relating to the coordination of policy, regulations, and communications for air and radiation issues relating to stationary sources.

Major Duties and Responsibilities

The Deputy Assistant Administrator for Stationary Sources serves as the alter ego of the Assistant Administrator (Air and Radiation), and shares fully, in combination with the Deputy Assistant Administrator for Mobile Sources, the Deputy Assistant Administrator for Air and Radiation, and the Principal Deputy Assistant Administrator in the responsibilities of supervising and managing the Office of Air and Radiation. These duties include planning, programming, policy implementation, management, direction and control of the technical and administrative aspects of the Office as well as the following duties:

1. Performs a variety of assignments associated with the coordination of sensitive policy issues with the White House, Congress, industry representatives', non-governmental organizations, and others. Reviews and coordinates regulations, policy documents, reports, and other materials of special importance and concern to the Assistant Administrator to ensure that they are prepared in accordance with and reflect the point of view of the Agency and the Administration.
2. Identifies critical policy issues and problems, related to stationary sources, that require the immediate and personal attention of the Assistant Administrator and recommends an appropriate course of action regarding interaction with White House and Congressional officials. Represents the Assistant Administrator at meetings and speaks on his behalf before a wide variety of groups on sensitive matters. Such activities frequently involve dealing with high level official from the White House, Congress, industry, non-governmental organizations, and others.
3. Undertakes assignments on projects of special concern to the Assistant Administrator.

These assignments are usually broad-based, of an Agency- or government-wide nature, and often involve relationships outside the Agency. Establishes contacts at the highest levels in order to develop information, evaluate findings, and prepare reports incorporating conclusions and specific recommendations. Provides information to the Assistant Administrator through personal briefings.

4. Supervises a large staff of employees organized into units headed by subordinate managers and supervisors. Plans for staff development including assessment of training needs, and performs supervisory duties involving the establishment and filling of positions, promotion and assignment of personnel, the provision of employee and labor relations services, takes disciplinary actions as necessary, establishes performance standards, appraises staff against these standards, and overall administration of human resources and Equal Employment Opportunity programs within the organization.
5. Provides continuing and ad hoc analysis and recommendations regarding highly urgent and sensitive management, regulatory, policy, and communications matters. Manages the implementation of specific program and regulatory policies relating to stationary sources including directing action assignments to the appropriate office component.
6. Performs other duties as assigned.

Supervisory Controls

Receives broad general direction and policy guidance from the Assistant Administrator (Air and Radiation). Within this framework, the incumbent is allowed wide latitude in the exercise of initiative and judgement in performing assigned duties in a highly independent manner. Work is subject to review only for attainment of overall objectives and compliance with broad policies.
